

ROMANY LANGUAGE OF ALBANIA

Meli Shopi

University of "A.Xhuvani", Elbasan. E-mail: melishopi@yahoo.it

Abstract

Linguistics has taught us that the romany language is spoken as the sankritishten language since the end of XIX century . Their language represents an extraordinary wealth and a large linguistic diversity that was formed since the beginning of the history of the Romany people . The territory of this nation has no limits . They are present in all regions of Albania . This language , which they are represented with ,is different from all the other nations . This language is spoken in different dialects . Few of them have been studied whether or not has passed the written language . This paper is based on the analysis and research of this language within the territory of Albania and is relying on series of articles , through these issues : "romany's language , its evolution origin and the current situation it shows that has enabled a clarification of the history of these people . So we should emphasize the fact that these dialects and variants enabled the preservation of a common vocabulary " Standardization of Romany's language as a cultural identity affirmation ". So we will have to deal with this issue to preserve aspects of standardization of Romany's language and the paradox that this standardization provides . The aim should be integration and not assimilation . First steps towards a real integration of linguistic are social and cultural to discover tradition ,values , customs , rites , in this community .This article will be a supplement of other articles that have been made in relation with the study of our language and romany's cultures.

Key words : romany language , origin standardization ,dialect ,variations,diversity