

THE HISTORICAL RELATION OF THE ALBANIANS WITH THE ITALIAN LANGUAGE. THE REAL LEVEL OF TEACHING AND LEARNING ITALIAN LANGUAGE NOWADAYS

Eglantina Gerverni

University “ Ismail Qemali” Vlore, The Faculty of Human Sciences ,The Department of Foreign Languages The Branch : Italian

Abstract

The World that we live in, has as the main word of all the movements happened in different periods, the liberty. The Right to be free in your choice, ideas, opinions. Free to build your identity without being deprived from the historical circumstances, people or person that impose restricted regimes. In this sense the topic prepared for the reference will give the idea that the restriction or deprivation of the right to learn, study or speak a foreign language ,leads to an eager to assimilate , even secretly the language, culture or the history of this nation, so happened with the Albanians in these 100 years state ; where the relation with Italy ,the culture and the language of this country has had it's tides. At the beginning we will treat the use of the Italian language from the Albanians and the influence that different political regimes had in the progress of this language in our country. The second part is going to be concentrated in the real state, the problems of teaching and learning Italian language nowadays. In the progress that the Italian language learning process had as a second language (L2) in Albania and how the Italian language after the 90s turned into the second language most spoken , but not studied in our schools.

Key words: Albanians, Italian language, learning, teaching.

