

THE CONCEPT OF TEACHER'S PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT.

Migena Alimehmeti

Faculty of Foreign Languages, University of Tirana, Tirana, Albania
Email: migenaalimehmeti@gmail.com

Abstract

In the early 21st century, theories about education have gained more and more ground in the social context according to the requirements of the time. This is based on the teaching process as a true profession, which is complex and multifaceted. Now day it is required a remodeling of the methodology oriented not only about the teaching but also about the learning process, too. This concept is based on the need to create links between thinking and acting. The issues to be addressed in this article are related to the concept of teacher's professional formation, to the globalization of education process and to the self-evaluation of teachers as key factor for vocational training. Albania, like other countries, is involved in the globalization process and, so, in the development of technology of the information in every area of society. For this reason, teachers are located in the center of attention of society trying to improve the quality of educational work.

Keywords: Professional development, teaching process, globalization, self-evaluation, concept.