Abstract

In our treatment we will observe and interpret semantically the words which carry the phonemes /r/ and /rr/ in a comparative approach where we bring out evidence in phonologic distinction and semantic perception of these words in many ways:

1. A short observation over the articulations features of the phonemes /r/ and /rr/
2. A short observation over the acoustic features of these phonemes
3. Psychological motivations of connections between the articulations and acoustic features in carrying semantic nomination in the words which carry the given phonemes, in Albanian language.
4. Observation and interpretation of semantic structures of the words carrier of the phonemes /r/ and /rr/ in a comparative approach.
5. The psychological world of Albanian speakers generating the words which are the carrier of the phoneme /rr/, a detailed analyses of some typical words which sign psychological hardness in nomination.

The theoretical research over articulations and acoustic features of the phonemes /r/ and /rr/. Analyses and interpretation of the psychological motivation between connections of the articulations and acoustic features in semantic carrying of these words in a comparative approach. The interpretation of the semantic information based on psychological and semantic theories over the words which carry the phoneme /rr/ as a part of the psychological world of the Albanian speakers. The working has special importance in building up evidence of motivation in nomination, where the language acknowledgement of Albanian speakers create semantic individualization of the realities as a sign of conventional weight, naturally towards the richness and coloration of the semantic variation.
