Abstract

This paper aims to treat the right of a Fair Trial before a Court. The Right of a Fair Trial is a very important part of Human Rights, sanctioned by all Charters of Human Rights and Constitutions around the world. This right is part of the rule of law and guarantees public security and fundamental right of every citizen. It has to do with the processes of fair judicial procedures in democratic state. It previews the rights of arrested person, the right to habeas corpus, the right of a fair and public process, before a court that is impartial and independent. The right of person to be protected by a lawyer, the right to be heard before a decision will be taken for him, the right of appeal in a supreme court inside and outside the country. The questions that rise are; how is this right applied in Albania? Does Albania respect this important right? Are problems during the judicial process? What is done to guarantee a fair process in Albania? Those are some of question that will take answer in this paper. The paper is based in analyses of national and international law and practices of court inside and outside Albania. There are seen also the main authors that have written in this field. It is found that, there are problems in the process of a fair trial and there are many complain for it, in national and international courts. It needs more to be done in this aspect by training the judges to respect the right of free trail, as very important part of Human Rights.
