Abstract

During the last two decades we have been witness how the new world order is faced with challenges such as terrorism, extremism, organized crime, proliferation of weapons of mass destruction, ethnic conflicts. As a result of these developments is not easy for international institutions to afford these changes and new threats that are risking global security. These developments are very problematic after heavy slap stability, peace and security in the world because intend to wrenching the sovereign states, hit relations between states violation international principles and laws. Challenges of globalized terrorism were not previously a serious challenge globally as it is today. Often said that terrorism has undergone globalization, this because it can provide new tools which allowed the possibility of action and unlimited destruction. The question is that if globalization is helping terrorism what is the solution? Should we be united and live with this fear? Who is using the science technological development to achieve its purpose? Recent times being shown the modern military vehicles consequences of this kind of terrorism are disproportionately larger than previously. Globalized terrorism is organized as a corporation and its cells are distributed around the world and the world is his field of action. Moreover, the new terrorism under pressure caused by globalization processes feeds and is joined with Islamic fundamentalism. In name of sacred ideals the threat and use of force are distributed in different regions of the world. Now day terrorism is still a sharpening issue in international arena, we know the laws but not effective application of the system. The world today is filled thanks to the globalization process, with fear, insecurity and prejudice and if we want to validate global terror we must put into action mechanisms to provide more efficient regional international cooperation. The fight against international terrorism has become the common interest of all countries, and international cooperation as an instrument of common action would be their cause.
